AHRMM's mission to advance the supply chain through education and empowering leaders to lead leaders is not just a goal but a passion that drives me to run for the Advisory Board.

Creating and developing impactful strategic guidance for the healthcare supply chain and growing the focused insights into the advancements of the supply chain's impact on patient care at this pivotal time supports the mission of healthcare and the supply chain's role.

Growing talent within the supply chain through education, mentoring, and networking has allowed me to mentor leaders and help advance their careers from the front line to director levels. The healthcare supply chain has an excellent opportunity to cultivate and grow internal talent by educating and networking with best-practice organizations and innovators across industries.
